- Manifesto for Medical and Postgraduate Students' Officer

If elected, using my experience taken from being Vice-President of the Masaryk Society and the SSEES Football Club as well as Huntley Street bar supervisor, I intend to deal with three main matters:

- The social scenes
  - The postgraduate social scene has recently developed but is still a fledgling enterprise, and I fully intend to expand it and raise it into a thriving community. I will increase publicity and access to information concerning postgraduate nights, and introduce a more regular night at the Union bars aimed specifically at postgraduate students.
  - The medical social scene is an incredible machine ran by several energetic people at the heart of the RUMS community. But I intend to build on their successes, of the Winter Ball amongst others, by pushing for a much needed profit for future events. I will also aid the community in their social enterprises with energy and enthusiasm.
  - I will work closely with the presidents and officers of the medical students' and postgraduates' societies and committees, ensuring coordination with UCL policy while allowing them freedom to develop and flourish as independent units of the College.
- Welfare, education, and representation
  - I will be your voice in the higher circles of the Union. I intend to ease the difficulties of undertaking a postgraduate degree and those that arise across all of the six years of medical study. When raised to my attention, I will dedicate time and energy to solving your problem.
- The new RUMS and postgraduate constitutions
  - The postgraduate constitution has been introduced this year and if elected I will ensure that the transition and development of the new executive positions and the constitution as a whole goes smoothly.
  - The RUMS constitution is being revived and reassessed. I have developed a strong understanding of and attachment to the medical student community, and it is important to me to uphold their unique spirit by ensuring that the students retain their independent identity while coordinating their constitution with those of the rest of UCL.

Having worked at Huntley Street since the beginning of my second year, previously being a regular customer, I feel I am very much in tune with the medical student community at UCL. As a friendly and approachable face to many a medic, I have come to understand the way they tick, what upsets them, what works, and how their education at UCL develops.

And being in my final year and commonly found associating with postgraduate students, I have come to appreciate their issues and needs. I feel I recognise ways in which their time at UCL can be improved and eased.
